

How can we help people better connect their faith with their work?

People need help with concerns like:

- Does the faith I hear about at church really apply to my work?
- What practically can I do to foster honest and caring communication at work?
- How do I relate with that difficult person on the job?
- What specifically can I do to share my faith and foster justice at work?
- How can I balance work, family, community, church, and traffic?
- How can my parish assist me in the way I make decisions at work?

What resources do you use now to assist people with faith at work concerns?

What additional resources do you wish you had? What materials are already available to strengthen the faith at work connection?

You recognize the importance of making faith relevant to all aspects of daily life, including work. We invite you, as parish leaders and interested parishioners, to participate in the following workshop:

Faith and Work: Strengthening the Connections

Presented by
Living Faith at Work

- For pastors, parish ministers, parish leaders, and interested parishioners.
- An interactive program offering a helpful vision and practical tools to enhance the ways we affirm, equip, challenge, and support people in linking Sunday Gospel ideals to Monday work realities. (We define work as whatever productive activity a person does -- whether as a volunteer, a homemaker, a student, paid or unpaid employee.)

This workshop will feature input from Father Norm Douglas, Executive Director of Heart to Heart Communications, and a panel of people already involved in Faith at Work initiatives.

We will learn from one another. We will provide a variety of current resources for fostering faith at work—such as work-centered small group topics and guidelines, liturgical and homiletic suggestions, adult and generations formation and RCIA opportunities, social justice workplace possibilities, evangelization and stewardship ideas, a weekend retreat experience, Faith Alive!, and two parish missions, God Revives Our World. (four sessions) and New Wineskins (3 sessions).
